

THE GLOBAL CLASS

Benjamin Roebuck

Dr. Benjamin Roebuck is a Professor of Victimology at Algonquin College in Ottawa, Canada. Currently, Benjamin is the principal investigator for a Canada-wide research project on resilience and victims of violence funded by the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada (SSHRC). Benjamin's previous work has focused on youth homelessness, strength-based interventions, and local adaptations of evidence-based crime prevention programs. He serves as the Vice-President of Youth Now Canada supporting young people with complex needs in the areas of youth justice, housing, community support, and engagement in agriculture. Benjamin recently co-authored a book on resilience in the lives of homeless youth.
